

CLIENT EXPERIENCE

Which route to take and how to get there

This utilities company was having difficulties managing the testing associated with multiple releases of its SAP system. Their already overworked business team spent too much time repeating the same tests; the CIO struggled to understand the status of the testing and why it was taking so long. Itecor worked with all parties to understand the situation and the cause of the frustrations and waste. Using experience drawn from best practices and industry standards Itecor helped the customer define a pragmatic roadmap to improve testing maturity.
